TS-0930... Prayer

Unless I am convicted either by Scripture or right reason... my conscience is captive to the word of God. I neither can nor will recant anything, since it is neither right nor safe to act against conscience. I can do neither. God help me. Amen.

Martin Luther

- Please critique a question for me. I don't want the answer to the question. I want you to tell me what the problem is with the QUESTION:
 - QUESTION: "Do you think it is ok for a woman to preach to the church?"
 - RESPONSE: The issue before is not what we think. Rather, it is, "What does God say?"

For the next few Sundays, we'll be looking at

Women's Role in the Church

Objectives:

- A. Create a receptive attitude for Bible STUDY, as opposed to Bible LISTENING.
- B. Review the relevant passages of scripture related to the role of women in the church, both Old and New Testaments.
- C. Determine the intended message of the inspired writers.
- D. Explore the relevant scriptures within their historical context.
- E. Reflect upon these scriptures in light of current attitudes and controversies regarding the role of women in the church.

We cannot accomplish all this in 4 weeks!

Truth persuades by teaching, but does not teach by persuading.
Tertullian

Believe those who are seeking the truth. Doubt those who find it.
ANDRE GIDE

Men occasionally stumble over the truth, but most of them pick themselves up and hurry off as if nothing ever happened.
WINSTON CHURCHILL

All truth passes through three stages. First, it is ridiculed.
Second, it is violently opposed. Third, it is accepted as being self-evident.

Why is this discussion so fearful to many?

NOTE: These are fears on both “sides” of the discussion!

Note 2: What is the first step in conflict resolution? (acknowledge/explain fears)

- A. Some fear that the church is changing its interpretation of scripture and that what seemed clear in the past is no longer clear. Some fear that we are departing from traditions which have served the restoration movement well over the past 150 years.
- B. Some fear that we have not interpreted scripture appropriately, biased by our own traditions, and have thus shut the doors of the church to many that God has accepted.
- C. Some fear that conflict will heighten between older and younger generations within our congregation, destroying an atmosphere of unity and love.
- D. Some fear that, if we don't address the role of women openly, a rift will occur in the congregation.
- E. Some fear secularism/humanism infiltrating the church.
- F. Some fear that, if we don't change our ways, our efforts at evangelism will fail because our message will not appear relevant to the people we attempt to teach.
- G. Some fear the nuclear family will be destroyed because the roles and responsibilities of husbands and wives will become so confused that families will not be able to function as a unit. Some fear children will find no security and no stability in our families.
- H. Some fear that women will be abused in families and will not be capable of seeking help because the hierarchical structure of the family is considered more sacred than the safety of family members.
- I. Some fear that, if women become more prominent in the church, men may abdicate their responsibilities in the church.
- J. Some fear that, if men are dominant in the church, the needs and potential contributions of women will be dismissed.

BIBLE INTERPRETATION

Author's Intended Meaning – AIM (Mark Moore)

- Video
 - 9 minutes
 - AIM? -- 1 Timothy 2:8, "I will therefore that men pray everywhere, lifting up holy hands, without wrath and doubting."
 - AIM? -- John 13:14, "If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet."
 - AIM? – Philippians 4:13, "I can do all things through him who gives me strength."
 - AIM? – Matthew 11:29, "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls."
 - "You don't choose your rabbi. If you demonstrate sufficient promise, a rabbi chooses you."
 - House to House/Heart to Heart magazine: "A disciple did not just want to know what his rabbi knew, he wanted to be like his rabbi, and do what his rabbi did. Each rabbi had a different set of interpretations, which was called a rabbi's yoke. When one applied to a rabbi, he grilled the applicant. The rabbi wanted to know if this disciple could do what the rabbi did: Can he spread my yoke?"
 - AIM? – Romans 12:20, 'On the contrary: "If your enemy is hungry, feed him; if he is thirsty, give him something to drink. In doing this, you will heap burning coals on his head."'
 - Paul says that if we give food and drink to our enemies, we shall be heaping "coals of fire on their heads." To us this doesn't sound like forgiveness, but like taking vengeance. In the Bible lands almost everything is carried on the head – water jars, baskets of fruit, vegetables, fish or any other article. Those carrying the burden rarely touch it with the hands, and they walk through crowded streets and lanes with perfect ease. In many homes the only fire they have is kept in a brazier which they use for simple cooking as well as for warmth. They plan to always keep it burning. If it should go out, some member of the family will take the brazier to a neighbor's house to borrow fire. Then she will lift the brazier to her head and start for home. If her neighbor is a generous woman, she will heap the brazier full of coals. To feed an enemy and give him drink was like heaping the empty brazier with live coals – which meant food, warmth and almost life itself to the person or home needing it, and was the symbol of finest generosity. – B.M. Bowen, Strange Scriptures that Perplex the Western Mind
 - We, Westerners, usually picture vengeance when we think of pouring hot coals on someone's heads. The Semites pictured something completely different ... We, Westerners, must break some of our traditions, if we are to ever come to a deep understanding of the God of the Bible. It is full of beautiful pictures like this one. – Gary Amirault, Tentmakers
 - AIM? – 1 Corinthians 14:34, "women should remain silent in the churches. They are not allowed to speak, but must be in submission, as the Law says."
- USEFUL RULE #1 -- If your interpretation exceeds the author's intended meaning it ceases to have God's authority.
 - USEFUL RULE #2 – Scripture does not contradict scripture.

Top Ten Bible Interpretation Rules (Mark Moore)

--Compressed from 8 hours of lecture--

1. AIM: Author's Intended Meaning
2. Context is King
3. A Passage cannot Mean what it Never Meant
4. Meaning is not in WORDS, not in SENTENCES, but in PARAGRAPHS
5. A WORD means what the AUTHOR intended it to MEAN
6. The first Commentary on ANY passage should be written by the AUTHOR of the passage (especially considering parallel passages)
7. Your Theology Begins with the Text with which you End
8. The Best Translation of the Bible is the one you READ
9. If your APPLICATION exceeds the author's Intent or Scope, it Ceases to have God's Authority
10. The Holy Spirit is not MERELY interested in being an Author

The scriptures can be twisted, distorted and slanted.

Bear in mind that our Lord's patience with us is our salvation, as our beloved brother Paul wrote to you, out of the wisdom he had received, speaking of this matter as he does in all of his letters, some of which contain certain difficult and obscure statements, which those who are untaught and unstable, distort as they do the other scriptures, to their own destruction (2 Peter 3:15,16).

- Here are some ways to distort the scriptures
 - Ignoring the Context -- the practice of lifting a passage out of its context or setting, and interpreting it in isolation and detachment
 - Altering the Vocabulary -- Another way by which the scriptures can be twisted is by assigning an acquired meaning to a word and then proceeding as if this were the meaning accredited to it when used by the Spirit.
 - Alexander Campbell:
 - "There must be, and there shall be an abandonment of the new and corrupt nomenclature, and a restoration of the inspired one. In other words there must be an abandonment of the corrupt phraseology of the dark ages and of modern discoveries... This is a matter of greater importance than may, at first sight, appear to all. Words and names long consecrated, and sanctified by long use, have a very imposing influence upon the human understanding. We think, as well as speak, by means of words.
 - "...when men adopt terms to express supernatural truths, it is not the truths themselves, but their ideas of them they communicate. They select such terms as suit their apprehensions of revealed truth, and hence the terms they use are expressive only of their conceptions of divine things and must just be as imperfect as their conceptions are. It is impossible for any man, unless by accident, to express accurately that which he apprehends imperfectly. From this source spring most of our doctrinal controversies. Men's opinions, expressed in their own terms, are often called Bible truths.
 - King James, Tyndale
 - Tyndale, Matt 16:18 -- 18 And I saye also vnto the yt thou arte Peter: and upon this rocke I wyll bylde my congregacion. And the gates of hell shall not prevayle ageynst it.
 - Tyndale, Matt 18:17 -- 17 If he heare not them tell it vnto the congregacion. If he heare not ye congregacion take him as an hethen man and as a publican.
 - Imposing Meaning
 - 1 Timothy 3:13.
 - "For they that (1247) have used the office of a deacon well purchase to themselves a good degree, and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus."
 - The words have used the office of a deacon were all used to define one Greek word, diakoneo, which is defined as: "To be a servant, attendant, domestic, to serve, wait upon..." (Strong's)
 - The words have used the office of a deacon are a paraphrase of one Greek word - (diakoneo), which simply means, to serve. It is only translated have used the office of a deacon in first Timothy 3:13. Throughout the rest of the New Testament, Diakoneo never implies office or rule, but the service of a slave to his master. The words have used the office of a deacon were an attempt to redefine what was once descriptive of the loving service of a slave and make it a hierarchical office instead.

○ 1 Timothy 5:17

- The King James translators have Paul telling Timothy: "Let the elders that rule well be counted worthy of double honour, especially they who labour in the word and doctrine."
- Referring to this Dr. Norman Park wrote:
 - "These writers made short shrift of the claim that elders have the authority to 'rule.' They knew the history of the 1611 version and the determination of King James to confer on both bishop and king the divine right to rule: 'No bishop, no king.' Hence his demand that the Greek word proistemi be rendered 'rule,' though it actually carried no connotation of authority, power, or governance. It merely meant that elders should be 'foremost' in zeal, knowledge, quality of life, and concern for the welfare of the church - a quality which rightfully should be embodied in all saints."
- How is it that the word "rule", which in the mind of the English reader bore dictatorial overtones, found its way into the text? Paul wrote: "Not that we have dominion over (archo) your faith, but are fellow workers for your joy; for by faith you stand." (2 Corinthians 1:24, NKJV).

TS-1020...

What does 1 Cor 12:13, the book of Philemon, and Genesis 9 have to do with women's roles?

- 1 Cor 12:13 For we were all baptized by one Spirit so as to form one body—whether Jews or Gentiles, slave or free—and we were all given the one Spirit to drink.
- Passages which contradict [MCM -- ?!?!?] Galatians 3:28 (such as I Corinthians 14:34-35) should be viewed as temporary expedients (an accommodation to culture) which look forward to a greater good (just as Onesimus was asked to return to Philemon [Philemon 12] though in reality slavery eventually should be abolished).

T.I.C. – “Why is what the Bible said about slavery 150 years ago different than what it says about slavery today?”

Parallel with Slavery:

- Abilene Christian College first admitted black undergraduate students in 1962 (graduate students had been admitted in 1961).
- In the Bible Banner (March, 1941), Foy Wallace wrote an article titled "Negro Meetings for White People" in which Wallace argued against the mixing of the races which he felt "lowers the church in the eyes of the world."
 - "The manner in which the brethren in some quarters are going in for the negro meetings leads one to wonder whether they are trying to make white folks out of the negroes or negroes out of the white folks. The trend of the general mix-up seems to be toward the latter. Reliable reports have come to me of white women, members of the church, becoming so animated over a certain colored preacher as to go up to him after a sermon and shake hands with him holding his hand in both of theirs. That kind of thing will turn the head of most white preachers, and sometimes affect their conduct, and anybody ought to know that it will make fools out of the negroes. For any woman in the church to so far forget her dignity, and lower herself so, just because a negro has learned enough about the gospel to preach it to his race, is pitiable indeed. Her husband should take her in charge unless he has gone crazy, too. In that case somebody ought to take both of them in charge."
 - [NOTE: N. B. Hardeman was the president of Freed-Hardeman Christian University from 1925-1950. Prolific gospel preacher and debater.] "When N. B. Hardeman held the valley-wide meeting at Harlingen, Texas, some misguided brethren brought a group of negroes up to the front to be introduced to and shake hands with him. Brother Hardeman told them publicly that he could see all of the colored brethren he cared to see on the outside after services, and that he could say everything to them that he wanted to say without the formality of shaking hands. I think he was right."
 - "I am very much in favor of negro meetings for the negroes, but I am just as much opposed to negro meetings for white people, and I am against white brethren taking the meetings away from the negroes and the general mixing that has become entirely too much of a practice in these negro meetings. Such a thing not only lowers the church in the eyes of the world but it is definitely against the interest of the negroes."
- “Women’s Role In Ministry”
 - Do you know what forced the people of my generation to face our inherited and accepted racist institutions? It was a series of cultural pressures that impinged upon and exposed their injustice. When those pressures began opening schools and doctors' offices to minorities, many churches remained closed to them. Their pulpits continued to offer a traditional interpretation of the "curse of Ham" in Genesis 9 that had long been offered as a biblical defense of segregation.
 - It was cultural pressure that forced some Christians to open their Bibles, do serious research, and rethink the segregation of our churches and Christian colleges. All of a sudden we saw passages to which we had closed our eyes. For example, we saw that the Jew-Gentile issue in the early church was just another version of our own situation. Our scholars “discovered” that the Genesis 9 text was a prediction about one of Ham's sons, Canaan, and the future subjugation of his offspring by the Jews under Joshua.

- Culture forced the church to face up to its own moral and spiritual failure. Racism was entrenched within the church and was exposed as a moral evil only when the culture around us was challenged by some of its most oppressed members.

Where Did We In The Church Get Our Ideas About Women?

• Jewish Background

- The “Oral Law” of the Jews originated in the period during and after the Babylonian captivity. Babylon was extremely pagan, and used as an metaphor of the devil frequently in the Bible, especially Revelation.
 - Sotah 3:4 – “Let the words of the Torah be burned rather than committed to women.”
 - The Oral Law – “Even the most virtuous of women is a witch.”
 - Niddah 31b – “...when a girl comes into the world all are sad, when a girl comes into the world nothing has come into the world...”
 - “Even the most virtuous woman is a witch.”
- Philo (20 BC to 50 AD) was a Jewish scholar and philosopher, who lived in Alexandria at the time of Christ. “He sought to harmonize the teachings of Plato and Aristotle and other Greek philosophers with the teachings of the Old Testament. In the process he imposed the Greek disdain for women onto his interpretation of Scripture (just as later Christian scholars were to do in their interpretations of the writings of Paul). Philo taught that since women were able to be more deceived than men, the proper relation of a wife to her husband is epitomized in the verb “to serve as a slave” and the only purpose for marriage was procreation.

• Greek Influence

- The Church Fathers, the early Bible historians of the Catholic Church, shaped how the Church interpreted scripture and were the authorities on what the Church should believe. They all studied the Greek philosophers and were influenced by them, plus they had their own cultural prejudices against women. They developed an “orthodox theology” not based on Jesus’ teachings, but on the Greek philosophies they accepted as truth.
- Socrates (ca. 470-399 B.C.) – believed that women were the “weaker sex” and said that “being born a woman is divine punishment since a woman is half-way between a man and an animal.”
- Aristotle (384-322 B.C.) taught that the husband should be more than twice his wife’s age so he could dominate her.

• Roman Catholicism

- Tertullian, Father of Latin theology (A.D. 160 - 240) – called women the “devil’s gateway.” “On account of your punishment even the Son of God had to die.” He was the first to use I Corinthians 14 to silence women where they could not baptize, sing, pray or teach.
 - Augustine, Father of Orthodox Theology (A.D. 354 - 430) – taught that “women were not created in the image of God and that the female state is a deformity.” He promoted the concept that both women and sex were evil.
 - Chrysostom, Arch-Bishop of Constantinople (A.D. 347 - 407) [NOTE: The name “Chrysostom,” means “golden-mouthed” in Greek and was given on account of his legendary eloquence.] said, “Woman taught once and ruined all and to ask them for advice would be like talking to irrational animals of a lower kind.” He also believed that woman’s inferior status was not simply a result of the fall, but was an inferior one at the moment of creation.
 - Jerome, Ablest Scholar of the Western Church (A.D. 340- 420) – “Woman is a temple built over a sewer.”
- The early protestant scholars were all educated in Catholic universities and learned the same Greek philosophies. “The Church Fathers who laid the foundations of orthodox theology did so from the perspectives of Platonic and Aristotelian philosophy. They interpreted the writings of Paul through the eyes of pagans who lived 500 years before Christ and Paul! This problem intensified when Thomas Aquinas (1125-1274) systematized Roman theology using Aristotelian philosophy." Wikipedia → "Thomas blended Greek philosophy and Christian doctrine..."

Mistranslations in the Bible Concerning Women

- Psalm 68:11
 - KJV -- The Lord gave the word: great was the company of those that published it.
 - ASV -- The Lord giveth the word: The women that publish the tidings are a great host.
 - Adam Clarke's Commentary says of verse 11: "Great was the company of those that published it." [The Hebrew is translated] 'of the female preachers there was a great host.' Such is the literal translation of this passage; the reader may make of it what he pleases."

- Acts 18:26
 - KJV -- And he began to speak boldly in the synagogue: whom when Aquila and Priscilla had heard, they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly.
 - ASV -- and he began to speak boldly in the synagogue. But when Priscilla and Aquila heard him, they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more accurately.

- Romans 16:1
 - KJV -- I commend unto you Phebe our sister, which is a servant of the church which is at Cenchrea:

 - – "Phoebe a diakonon (masculine in the Greek) of the Church of Cenchrea." Where diakonon pertains to a man (in 22 other scriptures), it is translated "minister," but in this verse only, in connection with a woman, is it translated as "servant."

 - William Tyndale – 1526, first PRINTED New Testament in English (John Wycliffe in the 1380's produced the first hand-written English scriptures.) Fluent in 8 languages. "Architect of the English Language" (even more than Shakespeare!)

 - Tyndale -- "I commend unto you Phoebe our sister (which is a minister of the congregation of Cenchrea)."

- Romans 16:2
 - KJV -- ...for she hath been a succourer of many, and of myself also.

 - Yyyy

- Romans 16:7
 - Rom 16:7 (RSV) — "Greet Andronicus and Junias, my kinsmen and my fellow prisoners; they are men of note among the apostles, and they were in Christ before me."
 - The Greek has "Junia" instead of "Junius" and "my relatives" instead of "kinsmen." The word "men" is not in the original Greek text. It was inserted by the translators, apparently because they could not imagine a woman being an apostle. The Greek simply says, "they are of note among the apostles." Junia was considered to be a female until the 13th century when Aegidius translated it Junias. Junia was a common Latin female name. No Junius (male form of the name) is recorded.

- 1 Cor 16:15-16
 - I beseech you, brethren, (ye know the house of Stephanas, that it is the firstfruits of Achaia, and that they have addicted themselves to the ministry of the saints,) 16 that ye submit yourselves unto such, and to every one that helpeth with us, and laboureth.
 - Paul is talking about ministers with authority. Therefore, many try to maintain Stephana was an abbreviation for a man's name, but Stephana is a Greek female name; Stephanos was the masculine form in Acts 6:5. This translation is based on the disbelief that a woman could be the head of a household of ministers.

Here is how William Tyndale, the great English Bible scholar, translates it: "Brethren (ye knowe the housse of Stephana how yt they are the first of Achaia and that they have appointed them selves to minister ynto the saynctes). I beseche you yt ye be obedient ynto soche and to all that helpe and laboure."

- Copernicus 1543

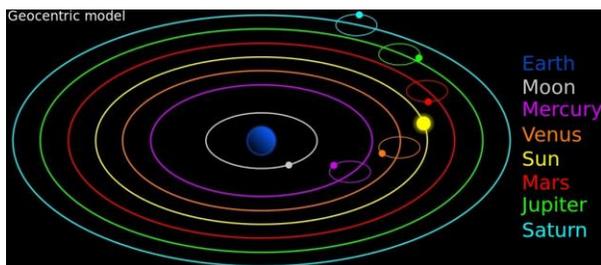

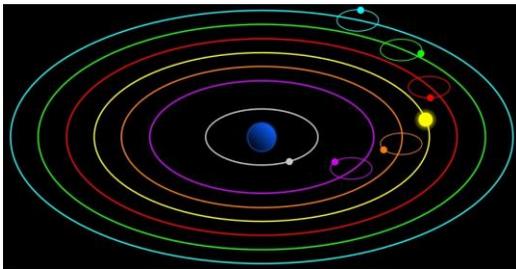

The geocentric model, also known as the Ptolemaic system, is a theory that was developed by philosophers in Ancient Greece and was named after the philosopher Claudius Ptolemy who lived circa 90 to 168 A.D. It was developed to explain how the planets, the Sun, and even the stars orbit around the Earth. The geocentric theory has existed even before Ptolemy though. This model has been described in various early Greek manuscripts, and as early as the 4th century B.C. Plato and Aristotle were writing about the geocentric model.

It was not until the 16th century that a fully predictive mathematical model of a heliocentric system was presented, by the Renaissance mathematician, astronomer, and Catholic cleric Nicolaus Copernicus, leading to the Copernican Revolution. In the following century, Johannes Kepler elaborated upon and expanded this model to include elliptical orbits, and supporting observations made using a telescope were presented by Galileo Galilei.

81 references in scripture support geocentricism (one source)

- Galileo 1610 made observations through telescope (What happened in 1611?)
- Church 1616 “Heliocentricity is formally heretical”

Galileo's contributions caused difficulties for theologians and natural philosophers of the time, as they contradicted scientific and philosophical ideas based on those of Aristotle and Ptolemy and closely associated with the Catholic Church (despite their being pagan authors).

1 Cor 11:1-16

11 Follow my example, as I follow the example of Christ.

² I praise you for remembering me in everything and for holding to the teachings,
^a just as I passed them on to you.

¹¹ In the Lord, however, woman is not independent of man, nor is man independent of woman. ¹² For as woman came from man, so also man is born of woman. But everything comes from God. ¹³ Judge for yourselves: Is it proper for a woman to pray to God with her head uncovered? ¹⁴ Does not the very nature of things teach you that if a man has long hair, it is a disgrace to him, ¹⁵ but that if a woman has long hair, it is her glory? For long hair is given to her as a covering. ¹⁶ If anyone wants to be contentious about this, we have no other practice – nor do the churches of God.

²² Tongues, then, are a sign, not for believers but for unbelievers; prophecy, however, is for believers, not for unbelievers. ²³ So if the whole church comes together and everyone speaks in tongues, and some who do not understand ^g or some unbelievers come in, will they not say that you are out of your mind? ²⁴ But if an unbeliever or someone who does not understand ^h comes in while everybody is prophesying, he will be convinced by all that he is a sinner and will be judged by all, ²⁵ and the secrets of his heart will be laid bare. So he will fall down and worship God, exclaiming, "God is really among you!"

²⁶ What then shall we say, brothers? When you come together, everyone has a hymn, or a word of instruction, a revelation, a tongue or an interpretation. All of these must be done for the strengthening of the church. ²⁷ If anyone speaks in a tongue, two – or at the most three – should speak, one at a time, and someone must interpret. ²⁸ If there is no interpreter, the speaker should keep quiet in the church and speak to himself and God.

²⁹ Two or three prophets should speak, and the others should weigh carefully what is said. ³⁰ And if a revelation comes to someone who is sitting down, the first speaker should stop. ³¹ For you can all prophesy in turn so that everyone may be instructed and encouraged. ³² The spirits of prophets are subject to the control of prophets. ³³ For God is not a God of disorder but of peace.

As in all the congregations of the saints, ³⁴ women should remain silent in the churches. They are not allowed to speak, but must be in submission, as the Law says. ³⁵ If they want to inquire about something, they should ask their own husbands at home; for it is disgraceful for a woman to speak in the church.

³⁶ Did the word of God originate with you? Or are you the only people it has reached? ³⁷ If anybody thinks he is a prophet or spiritually gifted, let him acknowledge that what I am writing to you is the Lord's command. ³⁸ If he ignores this, he himself will be ignored. ⁱ

³⁹ Therefore, my brothers, be eager to prophesy, and do not forbid speaking in tongues. ⁴⁰ But everything should be done in a fitting and orderly way.

Gal 3:26-29

²⁶ You are all sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus, ²⁷ for all of you who were baptized into Christ have clothed yourselves with Christ. ²⁸ There is neither Jew nor Greek, slave nor free, male nor female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus. ²⁹ If you belong to Christ, then you are Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise.

1 Tim 2

2 I urge, then, first of all, that requests, prayers, intercession and thanksgiving be made for everyone— ² for kings and all those in authority, that we may live peaceful and quiet lives in all godliness and holiness. ³ This is good, and pleases God our Savior, ⁴ who wants all men to be saved and to come to a knowledge of the truth. ⁵ For there is one God and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus, ⁶ who gave himself as a ransom for all men — the testimony given in its proper time. ⁷ And for this purpose I was appointed a herald and an apostle – I am telling the truth, I am not lying – and a teacher of the true faith to the Gentiles.

⁸ I want men everywhere to lift up holy hands in prayer, without anger or disputing.

⁹ I also want women to dress modestly, with decency and propriety, not with braided hair or gold or pearls or expensive clothes, ¹⁰ but with good deeds, appropriate for women who profess to worship God.

¹¹ A woman should learn in quietness and full submission. ¹² I do not permit a woman to teach or to have authority over a man; she must be silent. ¹³ For Adam was formed first, then Eve. ¹⁴ And Adam was not the one deceived; it was the woman who was deceived and became a sinner. ¹⁵ But women ^a will be saved ^b through childbearing – if they continue in faith, love and holiness with propriety.

WOMEN'S ROLE IN MINISTRY

1 Corinthians 14:33b-35

The first passage that must be examined is this: "As in all the congregations of the saints, women should remain silent in the churches. They are not allowed to speak, but must be in submission, as the Law says. If they want to inquire about something, they should ask their own husbands at home; for it is disgraceful for a woman to speak in the church."

Taken at face value and without qualification, this text likely requires more than anyone is willing to demand. Let me explain.

The verb translated "remain silent" is an imperative form of the word sigao. Sigao means "a. say nothing, keep silent ... b. stop speaking, become silent ... c. hold one's tongue, keep something a secret" (Bauer, Gingrich, and Danker, Greek-English Lexicon, 2nd ed., p. 749). Its corresponding noun (sige) means "silence, quiet in the sense of the absence of all noise, whether made by speaking or by anything else" (Bauer, Lexicon, pp. 749-750). This word means that in whatever situation was in view by Paul in this text, females were not allowed to open their mouths. They couldn't make a sound. They had to wait until the service was over even to ask a question about what had happened.

I repeat: Taken at face value and without qualification, this text likely requires more than anyone is willing to demand. If this verse governs the conduct of Christian women in church assemblies, then females can't confess their faith in Christ publicly or sing praise to the Lord! Furthermore, if this is a prohibition of all speaking by women in all Christian assemblies, Paul has contradicted his own instruction earlier in the same epistle (11:5). Is there an obvious qualification to this requirement of absolute silence?

A fundamental rule of biblical interpretation has to do with context. Every statement of Scripture must be read within its setting and not yanked out to serve as a free-standing pronouncement. The larger environment of Paul's strict demand for silence was his discussion of assemblies in which supernatural gifts such as tongues and prophecy were supplied by the Holy Spirit. The immediate context of his statement is the authoritative review and interpretation of the songs, tongues, and prophecies that have been offered in a particular assembly of that type. "Two or three prophets should speak, and the others should weigh carefully what is said" (11:29).

The issue for the sisters in those assemblies, then, was not confessing Christ or singing -- or even, in these Spirit-driven services, praying aloud or prophesying -- but presiding over these services and/or authoritative pronouncements about things that had transpired during them. You will shortly see the reason for his emphasis on presiding, making authoritative judgments, and being decision-makers for the collective body.

If this is indeed the right interpretation of the "qualification" to Paul's demand for non-participation by the Christian women at Corinth, then his statement in chapter 14 is perfectly consistent with what he had already written in chapter 11. What should a man or woman do with a revelation, tongue, song, prophecy, or prayer given to him or her by the Holy Spirit? Share it! Observe the etiquette of your time and place in doing so, which at Corinth in the first century required women to wear veils to symbolize their submission to male headship and leadership in the church (11:7-10). Then, when the time came for the church's leaders to make an authoritative evaluation of anything that had been offered by either males or females in those services, the male leadership -- whose position of authority was acknowledged by the symbolism of the veil -- was to make a judgment with the women keeping strict silence as that verdict was delivered. Thus the women at Corinth were permitted to exercise their supernatural gifts but were required to defer to the church's male leadership for an assessment of its import on the future life of the group.

1 Timothy 2:8-12

The second passage we must study is found in the so-called Pastoral Epistles: "I want men everywhere to lift up holy hands in prayer, without anger or disputing. I also want women to dress modestly, with decency and propriety, not with braided hair or gold or pearls or expensive clothes, but with good deeds appropriate for women who profess to worship God. A woman should learn in quietness and full submission. I do not permit a woman to teach or to have authority over a man; she must be silent."

First, this text does not enjoin a tight-lipped ban against women speaking in church assemblies. The word translated "quietness" (v. 11) or "silent" (v. 12) is not sigao but hesukia. It refers less to a person's speech than to his or her spirit of inner peace and ability to live in peace and harmony with others (Bauer, Lexicon, p. 349). For example, Paul has already used the same word in verse 2 of the "peaceful and quiet lives" Christians pray to live in the larger society. Believers want to live in harmony with others and with proper regard for "all those in authority," but this implies nothing about restraint from oral expression.

Second, this text is apparently the general rule for male and female relationships in Christ. As opposed to the special circumstances of Corinth, this is a broad outline of how the two sexes relate to each other in the ekklesia Christou. There is no contextual indication that it applies only with some degree of qualification or to assemblies of a unique type. To the contrary, verses 13-15 appear to ground this rule in creation and the fall. Thus its source is not custom but trans-cultural events.

Third, it does not question a woman's right to confess Christ or sing to the Lord. It does not prohibit her speaking, testifying, or raising questions in the assembly. It does not preclude her teaching mixed groups such as classes or small-group Bible studies. It says nothing against her right to articulate her prayers aloud in a family setting, study group, or devotional.

Galatians 3:28 (Wright)

First, a note about translation and exegesis. I notice that on one of your leaflets you adopt what is actually a mistranslation of this verse: neither Jew nor Greek, neither slave nor free, neither male nor female. That is precisely what Paul does not say; and as it's what we expect he's going to say, we should note quite carefully what he has said instead, since he presumably means to make a point by doing so, a point which is missed when the translation is flattened out as in that version. What he says is that there is neither Jew nor Greek, neither slave nor free, no 'male and female'. I think the reason he says 'no male and female' rather than 'neither male nor female' is that he is actually quoting Genesis 1, and that we should understand the phrase 'male and female' in scare-quotes.

Added by MCM, from The Pulpit Commentary:

The change of form, "male and female," from "no Jew nor Gentile," "no bondman nor freeman," was perhaps suggested by the passage in Genesis 1:27 (ἄρσεν καὶ θῆλυ), "male and female created he them," which is quoted in Matthew 19:4; Mark 10:6. If so, the clause may be regarded (as Bishop Lightfoot says) as forming a climax: "even the primeval distinction of male and female." But perhaps the change is simply made for the sake of variety...

Among the many things that need to be said about the gospels is that we gain nothing by ignoring the fact that Jesus chose twelve male apostles. There were no doubt all kinds of reasons for this within both the symbolic world in which he was operating and the practical and cultural world within which they would have to live and work. But every time this point is made – and in my experience it is made quite frequently – we have to comment on how interesting it is that there comes a time in the story when the disciples all forsake Jesus and run away; and at that point, long before the rehabilitation of Peter and the others, it is the women who come first to the tomb, who are the first to see the risen Jesus, and are the first to be entrusted with the news that he has been raised from the dead. This is of incalculable significance. Mary Magdalene and the others are the apostles to the apostles. We should not be surprised that Paul calls a woman named Junia an apostle in Romans 16.7. If an apostle is a witness to the resurrection, there were women who deserved that title before any of the men. (I note that there was a huge fuss in the translation and revision of the New International Version at the suggestion that Junia was a woman, and that not a single historical or exegetical argument was available to those who kept insisting, for obvious reasons, that she was Junias, a man.)

Nor is this promotion of women a totally new thing with the resurrection. As in so many other ways, what happened then picked up hints and pinpoints from earlier in Jesus' public career. I think in particular of the woman who anointed Jesus (without here going in to the question of who it was and whether it happened more than once); as some have pointed out, this was a priestly action which Jesus accepted as such. And I think, too, of the remarkable story of Mary and Martha in Luke 10. Most of us grew up with the line that Martha was the active type and Mary the passive or contemplative type, and that Jesus is simply affirming the importance of both and even the priority of devotion to him. That devotion is undoubtedly part of the importance of the story, but far more obvious to any first-century reader, and to many readers in Turkey, the Middle East and many other parts of the world to this day would be the fact that Mary was sitting at Jesus' feet within the male part of the house rather than being kept in the back rooms with the other women. This, I am pretty sure, is what really bothered Martha; no doubt she was cross at being left to do all the work, but the real problem behind that was that Mary had cut clean across one of the most basic social conventions. It is as though, in today's world, you were to invite me to stay in your house and, when it came to bedtime, I were to put up a camp bed in your bedroom. We have our own clear but unstated rules about whose space is which; so did they. And Mary has just flouted them. And Jesus declares that she is right to do so. She is 'sitting at his feet'; a phrase which doesn't mean what it would mean today, the adoring student gazing up in admiration and love at the wonderful teacher. As is clear from the use of the phrase elsewhere in the NT (for instance, Paul with Gamaliel), to sit at the teacher's feet is a way of saying you are being a student, picking up the teacher's wisdom and learning; and in that very practical world you wouldn't do this just for the sake of informing your own mind and heart, but in order to be a teacher, a rabbi, yourself. Like much in the gospels, this story is left cryptic as far as we at least are concerned, but I doubt if any first-century reader would have missed the point. That, no doubt, is part at least of the reason why we find so many women in positions of leadership, initiative and responsibility in the early church; I used to think Romans 16 was the most boring chapter in the letter, and now, as I study the names and think about them, I am struck by how powerfully they indicate the way in which the teaching both of Jesus and of Paul was being worked out in practice.

1 Corinthians

There has been an enormous amount of work done recently on the social and cultural context of 1 Corinthians, not least by Bruce Winter in Cambridge, and I want to urge all those who are interested in finding out what Paul actually said and meant to study such work with great care. I don't have time or skill to go into details; but there are many things about first-century classical life which shed a great deal of light on the actual issues which Paul is addressing and they need to be taken carefully into account. I want instead to home in at once on one of the two passages which has caused so much difficulty, the verses at the end of 1 Corinthians 14 in which Paul insists that women must keep silent in church. I am in two minds whether to agree with those who say this verse is a later and non-Pauline interpolation. One of the finest textual critics of our day, Gordon Fee, has argued very strongly that it is, purely on the grounds of the way the manuscript tradition unfolds. I urge you to examine his arguments and make up your own minds. But I have always been attracted, ever since I heard it, to the explanation offered once more by Ken Bailey. In the Middle East, he says, it was taken for granted that men and women would sit apart in church, as still happens today in some circles. Equally important, the service would be held (in Lebanon, say, or Syria, or Egypt), in formal or classical Arabic, which the men would all know but which many of the women would not, since the women would only speak a local dialect or patois. Again, we may disapprove of such an arrangement, but one of the things you learn in real pastoral work as opposed to ivory-tower academic theorizing is that you simply can't take a community all the way from where it currently is to where you would ideally like it to be in a single flying leap. Anyway, the result would be that during the sermon in particular, the women, not understanding what was going on, would begin to get bored and talk among themselves. As Bailey describes the scene in such a church, the level of talking from the women's side would steadily rise in volume, until the minister would have to say loudly, 'Will the women please be quiet!', whereupon the talking would die down, but only for a few minutes. Then, at some point, the minister would again have to ask the women to be quiet; and he would often add that if they wanted to know what was being said, they should ask their husbands to explain it to them when they got home. I know there are other explanations sometimes offered for this passage, some of them quite plausible; this is the one that has struck me for many years as having the strongest claim to provide a context for understanding what Paul is saying. After all, his central concern in 1 Corinthians 14 is for order and decency in the church's worship. This would fit extremely well.

What the passage cannot possibly mean is that women had no part in leading public worship, speaking out loud of course as they did so. This is the positive point that is proved at once by the other relevant Corinthian passage, 1 Corinthians 11.2–11, since there Paul is giving instructions for how women are to be dressed while engaging in such activities, instructions which obviously wouldn't be necessary if they had been silent in church all the time. But that is the one thing we can be sure of. In this passage, almost everything else seems to me remarkably different to nail down.

The key to the present passage, then, is to recognize that it is commanding that women, too, should be allowed to study and learn, and should not be restrained from doing so (verse 11). They are to be 'in full submission'; this is often taken to mean 'to the men', or 'to their husbands', but it is equally likely that it refers to their attitude, as learners, of submission to God or to the gospel – which of course would be true for men as well. Then the crucial verse 12 need not be read as 'I do not allow a woman to teach or hold authority over a man' – the translation which has caused so much difficulty in recent years. It can equally mean (and in context this makes much more sense): 'I don't mean to imply that I'm now setting up women as the new authority over men in the same way that previously men held authority over women.' Why might Paul need to say this?

There are some signs in the letter that it was originally sent to Timothy while he was in Ephesus. And one of the main things we know about religion in Ephesus is that the main religion – the biggest Temple, the most famous shrine – was a female-only cult. The Temple of Artemis (that's her Greek name; the Romans called her Diana) was a massive structure which dominated the area; and, as befitted worshippers of a female deity, the priests were all women. They ruled the show and kept the men in their place.

Now if you were writing a letter to someone in a small, new religious movement with a base in Ephesus, and wanted to say that because of the gospel of Jesus the old ways of organizing male and female roles had to be rethought from top to bottom, with one feature of that being that the women were to be encouraged to study and learn and take a leadership role, you might well want to avoid giving the wrong impression. Was the apostle saying, people might wonder, that women should be trained up so that Christianity would gradually become a cult like that of Artemis, where women did the leading and kept the men in line? That, it seems to me, is what verse 12 is denying. The word I've translated 'try to dictate to them' is unusual, but seems to have the overtones of 'being bossy' or 'seizing control'. Paul is saying, like Jesus in Luke 10, that women must have the space and leisure to study and learn in their own way, not in order that they may muscle in and take over the leadership as in the Artemis-cult, but so that men and women alike can develop whatever gifts of learning, teaching and leadership God is giving them.

Yes () No ()
* If one is baptized, she must stop teaching.
Yes () No ()
17. A woman may prophesy.
Yes () No ()
* What did women do in I Corinthians 11:5?

- * What is the difference in prophesying and preaching?
18. A woman may serve as an evangelist.
Yes () No ()
- * Do you believe Christ was displeased because the woman at the well went into Sychar evangelizing and making disciples for Him? John 4:28,39.
Yes () No ()
19. A woman may serve as a deaconess.
Yes () No ()
20. A woman may serve as an elder.
Yes () No ()
21. A woman may teach men by letter but teaching them in a class is unscriptural.
Yes () No ()
- * What scripture says there is a difference?
22. A woman may sing a solo in:
- The public assembly. Yes () No ()
 - A public Bible class. Yes () No ()
 - A chapel program at a Christian college. Yes () No ()
 - A worship service at summer camp. Yes () No ()
 - A gathering of Christian women. Yes () No ()
- * If you answered "yes" on c, d, or e, and "no" on a and b, what scripture makes a differentiation?
23. Women may sing the lyrics of a song alone in a public assembly if joined in the chorus by male voices.
Yes () No ()
24. Women may sing an entire song alone without male participation in a public assembly.
Yes () No ()
- * Where does the Bible teach women may sing the lyrics alone?
25. A woman may read the entire 23rd Psalm in a mixed adult Bible class.
Yes () No ()
26. A woman may sing the 23rd Psalm in a mixed adult Bible class.
Yes () No ()
27. If no qualified man is present in a mixed adult Bible class, a qualified woman may teach it.
Yes () No ()
28. If you answered "yes" on question 24, what scriptures would you use to justify the practice?
29. If you answered "no", what scriptures would you use?
30. At which gathering of Christians were men instructed to remove their head covering to give honor to their head, Christ, in I Corinthians 11:1-16?
- All Lord's Day assemblies. Yes () No ()
 - All Bible classes. Yes () No ()
 - All family or private devotionals. Yes () No ()
 - All religious services. Yes () No ()
31. At which gathering of Christians did Paul instruct women to wear coverings to show honor to their heads, their husbands, in I Corinthians 11:1-16?
- All Lord's Day assemblies. Yes () No ()
 - All Bible classes. Yes () No ()
 - All family or private devotionals. Yes () No ()
 - All religious services. Yes () No ()
32. Since Paul continued Chapter 11 with instructions about how to observe the Lord's Supper, the instruction in verses 1-16 applies to the Lord's Day service.
Yes () No ()
33. The wearing of coverings or the removal of coverings did not apply to other events or activities such as work, play, travel, reading, writing, etc.
Yes () No ()
34. At which services were these uncovered men praying and prophesying in I Corinthians 11:1-16?
- Lord's Day services. Yes () No ()
 - Prayer meetings. Yes () No ()
 - Bible classes. Yes () No ()
 - Home devotionals. Yes () No ()
 - Only at services attended by women, unbelieving and unbaptized children. Yes () No ()

35. If you circled only "e" on the last question, give scriptural references which makes your answer absolutely clear.
36. If you answered "yes" on all questions in 31, were not men and women both praying and prophesying in the same services?
Yes () No ()
37. If your answers were "no" on question 31, which verse in the entire chapter would suggest that women were praying or prophesying in a different assembly than men?
38. A woman may express her faith in Jesus Christ as Lord from the pulpit on the Lord's Day.
Yes () No ()
* Only once and just before baptism. Yes () No ()
* Any time that it will bless hearers. Yes () No ()
39. A woman may express her faith in God's providence from the pulpit on the Lord's Day.
Yes () No ()
40. Men and women usually confess their faith before Baptism.
* Do you think God set the limit of one time only for women or men to confess their faith publicly?
* Where does the Bible make an exception to the silence rule in the assembly to enable a woman to make her confession there?
41. A woman may confess her faults audibly from the pulpit area in the Lord's Day assembly.
Yes () No ()
42. A woman may only whisper or write her faults for the preacher on the Lord's Day and he may then repeat her confession to the entire church.
Yes () No ()
* Scripture: _____
43. Where does the Bible make a distinction between whispering or writing a confession of fault, and confessing it in a way that the whole assembly can hear?
44. A woman may baptize anyone in a public assembly.
Yes () No ()
45. A woman may baptize only women and children at the Lord's Day service.
Yes () No ()
46. Where does the Bible instruct either sex to do the baptizing?
* Scripture: _____
47. If a mother chooses to take her child's confession and administer baptism to her daughter in a public assembly, is it scriptural?
Yes () No ()
48. If you answered "yes" to the above question, what scripture would allow her in doing so to make an exception to the "Silence Rule" of I Cor. 14:34?
49. Have women, where you attend church, ever made announcements from their pew when the male announcer asked, "Are there any other announcements?"
Yes () No ()
50. Does the scripture make it clear that a woman may make announcements from her pew while in a seated position, but that she would sin if she made the same announcement from the pulpit?
Yes () No ()
* Where does the New Testament mention a pulpit area?
* Where does the Bible allow this exception to the silent rule?
51. Have you heard women make announcements from their pew and is it scriptural?
Yes () No ()
* If yes, where does God approve of a woman making announcements only while sitting down and yet approves a man to do so standing up or sitting down?
52. Do you think God is concerned about whether a woman is sitting and facing the pulpit when making her announcement, or standing in front of the congregation making it?
Yes () No ()
* If "yes", what scripture directs it?
53. If you said "no" on question #4, where in the Bible does God give women the right to pass the communion left to right, but prohibit them from passing it from front to back?
54. If a woman can come to the front to confess her faith, what scripture would prohibit her from coming to the front to pass communion?
55. In I Tim. 2:12, Paul says, "But I permit not a woman to teach nor to have dominion over man, but to be in quietness." Circle the following ways in which she violates this command, "not to teach."

- a. Teach from the pulpit in a public assembly.
- b. Read a scripture in a public assembly.
